A MILE A MINUTE.

The Speed of English Express Trains—Sixty-Five Miles to the Hour—Nine Feet Driving Wheels.

Corr. New York Sun.

There are many trains in England whose time, as per published tables, is over fifty miles an hour; and a little delay at any part of the journey, by bad weather or adverse signals, will necessitate that a good many miles be traveled in one minute each to complete the journey punctually. The making of a mile in a minute for several consecutive miles is a daily experience on the Great Northern, Midland, London and Brighton, South Eastern, London and Northwestern, Great Western and several other railways. Any one who will trouble himself to look at the published time tables of the Great Western Railway (England), or at Bradshaw's "Railway Guide," will find it announced that a train leaves London at 12 o'clock and arrives at Swindon at 1:20. The distance is 77½ miles, and the time, from platform to platform, 80 minutes. With a heavy train running at this velocity, it is a matter of time to get up the speed and to slacken it so as to have the train well under control on reaching a crowded terminus. I once heard Mr. Brunel say that such trains lost seven minutes every time they were brought to a standstill, by signals or otherwise. This unquestionable authority leaves, therefore, 73 minutes to run 77½ miles. The train daily does sixty-three or six y five miles in the hour after the attainment of full speed. She must do so, for she is so punctual that people as she goes past. As stoppages become more frequent as the train travels west from Swindon, this speed is lowered to about fifty-five miles an hour, and a journey of 200 miles takes four and one-quarter hour hours, stoppages for refreshments, etc., included. A train similarly speeded leaves Exeter for London daily, and the two thunderbolts are (or were) timed to pass each other at Swindon, and could nearly every day be seen standing there side by side. This is not an exceptional performance, but has been done daily, Sundays excepted, for more than twenty years. The locomotives that draw the passenger trains on this railway have nine-feet driving wheels, one pair only. They have two pairs of leading wheels and one pair of trailing wheels on the engine, the tender running on three pairs of wheels. The four wheels on either side of the engine almost touch each other, thus fully utilizing the wheel base, and the springs are very heavy, consisting of this plates of the finest steel. The engine rides with wonderful ease in spite of her immense weight, engine and tender weighing sixty tons. The railway on which it is to be seen is a splendid piece of work, the rails being as if screwed into solid rock; and it is only 7-feet gauge line in existence. It is not likely that any other line of this or wider gauge will ever be constructed, so that the locomotive boiler has here attained its maximum diameter.

SET THEIR WATCHES BY HER

A HOTEL ON MULES.

A Caravansary for Hunters and Indians—Eggs on Toast in the Wilderness.

A correspondent of the New York Sun, writing from Ogden, Utah, says that a surgeon who, as an army officer, explored this region has set on foot a travelling hotel that will enable the invalid and the tourist to enjoy the scenery and the shooting and the fishing, and escape the discontents of mountain travel. He has organized an immense pack train, which will transport an ample hotel under canvas, containing in itself everything from a napkin to a bedroom in the first story, with a full corps of servants, from a bootblack and porter to the proprietor himself. As the trip is to be made on horseback, an easy-riding, fully equipped saddle horse will be furnished each guest. Awaking, the traveller makes his toilet, and then goes to the breakfast saloon, orders his hot coffee, cream, eggs on toast, grouse, venison or beefsteak, antelope chop or trout, hot rolls, &c., and after his repast his horse is ready, and with a friend or two he is off to spend some hours shooting, fishing, or sightseeing. His orderly follows to render any little service required, and his guide takes him to the site of the new camp when desired. Meantime the tents are struck, the bedding and all else packed, cinched on pack animals, and removed two or fifteen miles to the selected place. The hotel is reconstructed, and the tired tourist returns to find the dining table spread and the white-sprayed waiter ready to serve the smoking viands. He reads his mail, smokes his cigar, retires when ready to a clean, well-made bed, and sleeps until he awakes for a new day's sport. The expenses will be about $10 a day for the round trip of forty days.

Stopping a Bullet at Short Range.

From the Jacksonville Union. Two colored men got into a fight on Thursday morning last, and one of them shot the other in the head with a pistol. Though the combatants were only 6 feet apart, the bullet passed through the man's head and fell to the ground. It knotted him down, but did no further damage.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Florida beans are highly polished and made into sleeve buttons.

A quail was recently shot in Florida with a valuable ruby in its throat.

William R. Barker, the champion checker player of New England, has been made Isaac by close study of the game, and is in an asylum.

Mme. Gleyot lately brought an action against Prof. Bert of the Sorbonne, for damages caused by loss of boarders in consequence of the howl of dogs in process of vivisection. She lost her suit, but will appeal.

Tennyson's brother changed his name to Turner, in order to inherit an income of $10,000 a year. He left no children, and Tennyson can now get the estate on the same terms; but he will not accept the condition.

A young elephant in a menagerie attacked its keeper, at Lancaster, N. H., and probably would have killed him had not the vicious brute's mother come to the man's rescue, and inflicted severe punishment upon her offspring.

The deaths from violence—by murder, accident, etc., are four times greater in England than in Italy, although the latter has a larger population. This is due to the number killed in mines in England.

Brig Allison cut his throat in Louisville, but had not made a mortal wound when a policeman took away his knife. Allison was unable to speak, but he wrote on a piece of paper: "I will give you $5 if you will give me back my knife and let me kill myself."

A negro lay on his back asleep at Salem, Ga., with his bare feet uplifted on a log. A hunter made a wager with a companion that he could, at twenty paces, put a bullet through one of the sleeper's big toes. He shot and won; but the negro has sued for damages.

The game played by the female base ball club in Cincinnati was marked by a fight. The left fielder went to her position with a fan in her hand. Her captain ordered her to put the fan down, but she persistently used it. The captain seized it, tore it into shreds, and was at once grappled by the angry left-fielder. The encounter was short but vigorous.

A man with a $600 diamond on his shirt bosom leaned over a hen coop in a Cincinnati market, and a hungry hen picked off the jewel and swallowed it. The thief was soon lost among the hundreds, and there was no way of identifying her. So the man gained to have them killed, one after another, until the right crop was found. To recover the diamond cost him $23.

Father Revert, a Roman Catholic pastor at Westphalia, Ill., spoke in a eulogistic manner in his church about a fellow priest and a young woman. A slander suit was brought by the assailed pair, and the villagers became greatly excited over the controversy. The woman died suddenly, and Father Revert offered to conduct the funeral services or to permit the use of the church by the other priest. That night a mob took him out of his house, and carried him out of town on a rail.

How They Fight in Kansas.

James Dobbins' way home, at Kansas River Bottom, took him past Michel Burns' house. Burns emerged with a cocked revolver in his hand, and said, "Jim, I want that $80 you owe me." Dobbins replied, "I can't pay you, but I'll lick you if you'll throw down that shooter." Burns would not disarm himself, so Dobbins hurriedly procured a revolver from neighbor, and the duel was begun without delay. Seven bullets were quickly lodged in the two men, and then, although mortally wounded, they fought with fists and clubs until weak to stir. Both died soon afterward.

Attacked by Three Panthers.

From the San Fran. News.

At midnight, a short time since, an old man named Wiley Frazer was attacked by three large and ferocious panthers. He discharged the contents of his well-loaded gun through the body of the foremost panther. At this the others checked and set up such cries that they alarmed the dogs of the neighborhood and fifteen gathered to the spot. The fight lasted for a considerable time, but the yell of the dogs and encouraging shouts of Wiley awoke the citizens, en masse who gathered with guns in their hands and frightened the wearied panthers, causing them to flee.

EDITORIAL NOTES

At the late election in California an independent candidate for the Assembly in Merced county escaped total oblivion by voting for himself. He wanted a good man elected.—Alturas.

This reminds us of the candidacy of McCandless for speaker in one of the early Legislatures of California. McCandless was a rollicking, drinking, gambling, dueling, good fellow, originally from the extreme south, and elected to the Legislature from Mariposa. He wanted to be Speaker and got a promise from each of his associates to give him a vote in caucus. If all had voted for him who, over his wine had promised, he would not have failed of the nomination. When the caucus met, McCandless received one vote and Wall, of Monterey, was nominated. After the adjournment each of his friends, as they met him assured him that they had done as promised and pointed in proof to this one vote. McCandless heard the same story from eight or ten, when he began to chuse. He called them all up to Col. Vadder's bar to take another drink and said, "I got one vote in caucus; and each of you tell me that you give me that vote. Now"—drawing his pistol—"I want to say you are all a set of d—d liars, for I cast that vote myself."

The continued emigration of English farmers to the United States is exciting a great deal of attention. The returns from agriculture in England are now so poor that farms can hardly be made to yield a rental. Grain can be raised so cheaply in this country, without manure, and with little cultivation, that English farmers are beginning to think competition almost hopeless. Within the last few months hundreds of farmers have emigrated from England to Texas and other new States.

It is not surprising that an emigration should set in from Russia. If a man is in the employ of the Russian government he is in danger of assassination by nihilists, if a private citizen the authorities may any day pack him off to Siberia on suspicion of being a nihilist. Russia is perhaps the best country on the face of the earth to emigrate from.

The Greenback Labor party held a State convention in Maryland yesterday. The party showed up surprisingly strong in Maine. If that party could gain the ascendancy and set the printing presses to work at making money, how plenty it would be, and how little a paper dollar would buy.

The California State Fair at Sacramento, now in progress, is in every way a success. Sacramento is already crowded with visitors. The exhibit is described as excellent in almost all departments. Financially the result this year will be better than it was last season.

Blaine worked like a horse during the Maine campaign and the success of the Republicans is largely due to his untiring efforts. He seems to need no rest, for it is announced that he is going to Ohio to stamp that State for Foster.

The meetings in the tent are expected to come to a termination on Sunday evening. The subject for tonight is the "Nature and Location of Hell." All invited.—San Jose Herald.

When that debate is ended the judge will cry "Eureka."

Tuesday was the twenty-ninth anniversary of the admission of California into the Union. About the time that Starr King began to preach Union sermons it looked as if the Golden State would not be in the Union quite so long.

Great interest in the late election was manifested at Alturas. The independent remarks that "men were taken from sick beds and carried to the polls." A more familiar proceeding is to take voters from the polls and carry them to their beds.

A cartridge is said to have been invented which floats on the water, tastes good to ducks and bœufs their heads off when they chew it.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

There has never been a sermon preached in the Yankee Fork circuit. The Denver and South Park Railroad will be into Leadville October 1st.

Leadville has 1500 Roman Catholic families, who are about erecting a cathedral.

The assessed valuation in Colorado is $60,000,000 while in Utah it is only $1,000.

Now that the election is over and pockets empty, the Alturas folks look for temperance revival.

The pedomania has reached Denver, where there is a six mile go-as-you-please now in progress.

The harvest is unusually heavy in Payette Valley, Idaho.

The wheat crop raised on the "sage brush desert land" around Boise City averages 90 bushels to the acre.

The Indians in northern Idaho have fired the wooded mountains where they are, thus making pursuit almost impossible.

A Chinaman was found hanging in a Chinese den at Idaho City on the 26th of last month. The inmates of the house had all decamped.

Joseph B. Fay started his team in San Francisco last Saturday and was soon after found dead upon the floor with his skull crushed by the kick of a horse.

Sarah Ray, the first washerwoman in Leadville, has just let a contract to build a four-story iron-front brick building, and hopes to have it completed by Christmas.

The greatest altitude on the new road between Challis and Bonanza is at the summit of the divide east of Yankee Fork—9,100 feet. The altitude of the divide west of Challis a few miles, is 8,700.

A jury trial was held Saturday in the case of the Chinamen who set fire to the Carquinez burying ground while they were engaged in performing some of their funeral rites, and they were found guilty of the offense.

The case will undoubtedly be settled by the Chinese Companies paying for the damage done, which will amount to over $1000.

THE CALIFORNIA FAIR.

The Second Day's Races—A Large Attendance.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 10. The races at Agricultural Park to-day had an increased attendance. The first race was a running one for two-year-olds, three-quarter mile, $50 each, $25 for first, $200 added to the entries. The horses that went were Connor, Tillie C. and Ellie Duane. Connor won by a neck in 1:10.

The next race was a running one, stake free for all ages, 100 pounds, $25 P. P., $200 added, one and one-eighth miles. Entries—Glennies and Lady Fleet. Glennies won by half a length in 2:01.

The third race was a mile and a quarter dash for three-year-olds, $50 each, with $300 added. Of seven nominations Rillie R., Baldwin's b/f by Glenely and Warwick, were the only three to respond to the call. The betting on these was for Baldwin's stable $20, the others being $30. The contest was very close between Warwick and the Glenely filly to the half; then the Longfellow filly came up and made run under the whip and spur with her to the finish, which was very close—Lillie R. winning the heat by a neck only in 2:13 1/4.

The California cup race finished the programme for the day, the race for amateur riders not filling. There were two mounts for the cup, eight out of ten nominations having gone amiss, leaving Combs and Oats to do the handicap 2 1/4 miles, the former bringing 100 to 20, he carrying 110 pounds to Oats 92. The horse won easily in 4:11. In the contested race of Monday the Directors to day decided to give the race to Lady Fleet. Ironwood was given no place at all. The pools were declared off and the investigation as to fraud in the race is to go on and the guilty parties punished if possible.

Women Who Want Votes.

From the S. F. Bulletin.

The California State Educational Association, at a meeting held yesterday, decided to disband and organize in an entirely new and independent association, having for its purpose the accomplishment of the freedom of the ballot to women in this State.

Rev. B. F. Bowles, Mrs. Knox Goodrich and Mrs. Aaron A. Sargent were appointed to the Constitution and By-Laws. The Committee afterwards reported Constitution, which was adopted, and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Ada C. Bowles; Vice Presidents, Mrs. Dr. Bowles and Mrs. Ellen C. Sargent; Secretary, Mrs. M. A. Edmunds; Treasurer, Mrs. Theodore H. Hittell.

A Good-Night Clock.

From the Jacksonville Union.

A father on Monroe street has purchased a lover's alarm clock that works like a charm. At 10 o'clock it strikes loudly, two little doors open, and a man with dressing-gown and cap on glides out, holding in his hand a card inscribed "good night." As he bows and smilingly retires back into the clock, the young man takes the hint, says "Good night" to the fair daughters and departs.

Spontaneous Combustion of Chemical Combustibles.

From the Winnemucca Silver State.

A blazing freight car arrived here this morning on the emigrant train from the East. It was loaded with drugs and chemical compounds, and the fire is supposed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion. A stream of water from the yard engine quenched the flames; but the car was ruined and the cargo damaged considerably.

The investor should be made to chew one himself.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF.

Wild geese are flying over the Comstock.

A large flock of wild geese passed over Belmont on Monday going south.

Some of Austin's citizens have lately been badly scared by ghosts.

"Pant," late of the Ormsby House, Carson, is running a restaurant in Bodie.

Paradise valley crops have yielded better than at any time during six years past.

There were 190 scholars in attendance at the opening of the public schools in Austin on Monday last.

Superintendent Counter purchased a splendid team at Reno, says the Belmont Courier. It is an even bet that they knock the spots off any in Bodie.

A writer who has been in Humboldt county since its organization, from a close observation asserts that the present Board of County Commissioners is the first that has tried to permanently benefit the settler.

The Lyon county Times says that Belle H., the spirited little Carina mare, has been sold to Edward S. Stokes, he of the Jim Fick notoriety, for $6000. She was purchased in Oakland, last Thursday, at the conclusion of a race in which she came out ahead of her twelve competitors in 2:26.

Prospectors are striking out in all directions from Tuscarora, says the Review. Some are at work in this camp; several have gone or are preparing to go to Good Hope and the northern camp, and we understand that a camp will leave here this week for Mud Springs.
